

PLANS FOR PARK

EAGLE PRESENTS A MAP OF SUGGESTED IMPROVEMENT.

Shows an Excellent Driveway of at Least Five Miles in Extent, Along Which are to be Planted Lawns, Flower Gardens and Other Improvements. The Black Walnut in Greifentstein Thought by Some to be Sufficient to Pay for the Land at the Price Now Asked for It by the Present Owner.

On its first page the Eagle presents this morning a map of the three parks, Griswold, Riverside and Greifentstein, with a suggestion park plan.

The county now owns Griswold and the proposition of the city council is to appropriate $12,000 to buy Riverside and Greifentstein, and $3,000 for improvement purposes.

By entering Griswold on Central avenue one could drive around a pleasant half mile to the proposed bridge from this park across Little river to Riverside, entering that park by an extensive lawn noted on the map. Then the boulevard turns in the bend of the river to the right. Beyond the Oak street bridge is a fountain surrounded by large flower beds from which driveways extend on either side beyond another large lawn to another bridge across the Little river from Riverside to Greifentstein. From the entrance to Greifentstein the boulevard turns to the left in the bend of the river, passes around another bridge on Eleventh street to Thirteenth on the northwest extremity of Greifentstein. All the way around to the right of the drive in Greifentstein is a heavy growth of black walnut timber at the outer edge of which are proposed flower beds. Just north of Eleventh street is located another lake some seven times as large as the one at the entrance to Griswold, of which every one who has been to Griswold knows.

Extending around the north of Greifentstein, the boulevard runs into the south side driveway at Ninth. Coming back by the Ninth street bridge and keeping to the right in Riverside and around Griswold again, it is nearly a five mile drive and as delightful as any five two or one mile drive in any park in the west. It is a better natural park place than Kansas City, Omaha, Galveston, Topeka or even St. Louis has.

In all there are proposed six flower gardens, two lakes, besides the boating places in the Little river, a fountain, four big lawns and all this beside the natural growth of flowers and timber all over the parks.

Three thousand dollars is the amount appropriated by ordinance for improvement, which amount would put the parks in very good condition for the present.

Five hundred dollars or some such a matter would heighten the dam across Little river on northwest Griswold till the water would be excellent for boating and fishing purposes clear around Riverside park and half way up Greifentstein to Eleventh street. This would make a mile of grand boating and would be a very pleasant run with the big trees all along the banks.

Any one who takes a drive along the proposed way even now will be much delighted with the scenery which, though excellent, needs only a little embellishing to be extraordinarily delightful. It is the proposition of the council to buy Greifentstein and Riverside, which tracts can be had for less money now probably than at any time in the future.

The voters of the city will be given an opportunity to express themselves on the proposition two weeks from next Tuesday and to say whether Wichita wants an excellent park system or no parks in particular.

It is estimated by a good many who have driven about Greifentstein that the walnut timber on the land will be pay for it in three years more.

TOO YOUNG TO WED

Wichita Couple's Plans Frustrated by the Girl's Father.

The path of the youthful lover is one of thorns, and if it was not for the love light that now and then flashed as an electric spark between them it is doubtful whether they would survive the terrible ordeals that beset them on every hand. Wichita and Bentley during the past week have seen an example of devotion that seldom comes before the vulgar gaze of the outside world. Living on the edge of the town of Bentley resides Mr. E. P. Phelps, a farmer who is the father of two boys. The older, Will Phelps, is 21 years of age, and Newton, the younger son, is 20. In the thriving little village live Mr. and Mrs. John F. Werbin and their two daughters, Nellie and Louise. Their ages are 18 and 19, respectively. It was the most natural thing in the world that cupid should put in his appearance, but that he should shoot two arrows and hit these four young people was something rather unexpected.

Several years ago they all went to school together, where a natural feeling of admiration sprang up, which afterward grew until they found with blushes on their cheeks and shortness of the breath that "love" had come into their midst and come to stay. The courtship of Louis Werbin and Will Phelps progressed without slip or hitch and they are now engaged to be married. But the younger couple did not find things as smooth, probably not being adepts in the mysteries of courting.

Newton Phelps went to Newton, Kan., where he went to work in an iron foundry, but absence made the heart grow fonder in this case, so on last Monday he went ostensibly to visit with his parents in Bentley, but found time to go call on his lady love. The young lady's parents objected to her getting married, because she was only 18 and still wore short dresses. They determined to get married, even though her papa and mamma said nay. So off they went to Burton and from there to Newton. Mr. Werbin was soon aware of their flight and gave chase. He found his daughter in Newton, and getting her clothes he returned with her to his home. While in Newton he told the probate judge not to issue any marriage license to them, as his daughter was still a minor. He also made complaint to County Attorney Allen of Harvey county, but it was left in status quo pending the boy's good behavior. Nothing daunted, young Mr. Phelps returned to Bentley where he consulted with his father, who came with him to Wichita. They visited Judge Haymaker and Mr. Phelps gave his consent to the marriage and as the boy swore that his sweetheart was 18 years old, Judge Haymaker issued a license. They had arrived in the city on the early morning Santa Fe train and as soon as they had completed their business here they returned on the train that goes north at 10:40.

Mr. Werbin suspected that something was going on that would not meet his approval, so he comes to Wichita on the Midland train, getting here about noon. He puts off to Judge Haymaker's office immediately, and finds to his horror that a license has been issued. He explains the circumstances to the judge and gets him to write a line recalling the license on the ground that his daughter is not of lawful age. Mr. Werbin did not return to Bentley until that night about 9 o'clock, and in the interim young Phelps in company with a friend named Temple go to the Werbin home to get the girl, knowing that her father is away. Mrs. Werbin defends her castle and keeps her daughter in doors, and the lovers are frustrated once more.

Last Thursday morning Mr. Werbin and Miss Nellie came to Wichita on the early train and Mrs. Werbin comes in on the Midland about noon. It so happened that Mr. Phelps was on the same train coming to Wichita to go to the old soldiers' encampment at Leavenworth. The Werbin family went to a lawyer's office to consult about having young Phelps arrested on the charge of perjury. While they were in the lawyer's office he should come in but Mr. Phelps, for a short time words flew fast and furious and when it was at its climax Rev. Pat Blinn dropped in. He was formerly pastor at Bentley. Through his good offices calm was restored, which was all that was necessary. They then talked the matter over and after awhile the parents of the girl agreed that if at the end of one year she still loved her lover she could have their consent to wed. She turned over the marriage license and it was given to Judge Haymaker. Peace now reigns among the two families.

A letter was received a short time ago in the city from Mr. Whittaker of the Francis Whittaker & Sons Packing company, saying that several English capitalists would sail from Liverpool on October 15, and that they would probably arrive here about the first of the month. It is understood that these English gentlemen are coming here with a view of purchasing the plant with Mr. Whittaker at the head of it. It is said that they will supply unlimited capital for the maintaining and running of the big packing house. Mr. Whittaker has asked that some inducements be given which are now being considered, but no definite action has been taken and will not be until the party arrives and just what will be wanted is known. It is said that Mr. Whittaker has asked that a one-fourth interest in the stockyards be given to the company, they agreeing to run the plant at its full capacity the year around in consideration.

The People, Believe

What They Read About Hood's Sarsaparilla

Their Faith in This Medicine Is Grounded on Merit

They Know It Absolutely Cures When Other Medicines Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla is not merely a simple preparation of Sarsaparilla, Dock, Sillington and a little iodine of Potassium. Besides these excellent alternatives, it also contains those great anti-bilious and liver remedies, Mandrake and Dandelion. It also contains those great kidney remedies, Uva Ursi, Juniper Berries, and Pipsissewa.

Not are these all. Other very valuable curative agents are harmoniously combined in Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is carefully prepared under the personal supervision of a regularly educated pharmacist.

Knowing these facts, is the abiding faith the people have in Hood's Sarsaparilla a matter of surprise? You can see why Hood's Sarsaparilla cures, when other medicines totally, absolutely fail.

"My little girl was afflicted with eczema and suffered for seven years. She was attended by physicians and tried many different kinds of medicine without relief. After taking a few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla she was cured." Mrs. EMMA FRANKLIN, Honeoye, New York.

Wonderful what dashiness and style has been put into these garments of cloth and fur—and the prices that they can be sold for in our store in Wichita.
